HAPPY NEW YEAR

New Year's Day this year may seem to many folks a time for merriment and wishes more drolly practical than the happy "Happy New Year" if agricultural or commercial hard times are uppermost in one's mind. Yet a good sound of hollow optimism may have a mistle hard bargaining for better business cannot in itself work a miracle.

We must go forward with a certain sureness of heart. This is the soundest kind of gaiety. It holds with wisdom that better times will develop from careful reasoning and good will.

A many pages volume could be written on the times in the history of this nation when active common sense optimism has pulled nations and individuals through their apparently blackest hours. It is not the muddling policy, nor is it the dilatory practice of letting George do it. It means using our heads and our hearts simultaneously and actively.

There is no reason why 1931 should not and up by being a good average year for those who produce practical commodities. A scanning of the horizon is giving observers good ground for concluding that better "styling" of practical commodities such as cotton will prove a good commercial move. The industries producing cotton have big plans for 1931.

Handicrafts of mills throughout the country will be using damaged cotton in new, stylish well enough to suit the most fastidious taste for beauty, yet these garments will not be beyond even the somewhat thin purses of a so-called depression period.

This will be an excellent year for good housewives to invent new ways of making potatoes and beefs, corn and cabbage especially delectable to eat. In short, if everybody would stop right this minute talking hard times and make a New Year's resolution to make good old standard American products more attractive than ever before we should have very different months in the restoration of better days.

A very successful Christmas entertainment was given by the children of the Church School at the Harbor Church, Monday, December 22nd. The program was arranged by Mrs. Gladys Pray, Mrs. Arlene Benson and Mrs. Pavy and consisted of very pretty tableaux, group pieces and choruses in costume, with recitations and songs as well. The lighting effects were very pretty and were in charge of Cliff Barnes. Two numbers brought down the house, Harold Gould with a recitation about his dad playing with his toy engine, and Simon Smith Jr.'s solo about Santa Claus. After a frantic telephone call to the north pole by Melvin Eastman for Santa to hurry along, the gentlemen in question came rushing down the stairs and with lots of fun distributed the presents to everybody.

Mrs. Sadie Adams and her committee were to be congratulated on the very fine program of choruses, solos, carol singing and dances given at the North Fryeburg Church School Xmas Tree and entertainment.

The boys and girls more than lived up to the reputation for dramatic skill that North Fryeburg has won. Presents were distributed from the Xmas tree after the program, and then the children were assembled around the beautifully lighted Xmas tree in the center of the village and under the leadership of Dana Farrington, Church School superintendent, on the corner, sang several Christmas carols.

Callahans Gone Out West—Cantata Presented—Kiwanis Notes.

Rev. Arthur Callaghan and Mrs. Callaghan have gone out West. Mr. Callaghan attends a Ministerial Conference in Chicago and will later follow Mrs. Callaghan to Indiana, where they have a son and Mrs. Callaghan a brother, who is sick. Rev. Harry Cotton of Livingston occupied the M. B. pulpit and spoke from the text, "Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord." W. T. Norton supplemented the choir and sang "The Old Rugged Cross" very acceptably.

A very beautiful cantata, called the "Holy Child" was sung in the auditorium of the church on the evening of Dec. 21st, by a chorus of thirty-five voices.

The concert given by the Sunday school pupils at the Town Hall, Wednesday, the 24th, was well attended; all took their parts fine. The tree was well laden and Santa Claus assisted in the presentation of gifts. The ladies forming the committee were Mrs. Arthur Cartland, Mrs. Harold Day, Miss Amanda Fox and Mrs. W. T. Norton.

Porter High Alumni enjoyed a banquet at the New Lincoln Saturday. About thirty-five were present. Music, games and dancing was the order of the evening.

Lawrence Gentleman of Waterville, Mass., who came to attend the Porter High alumni celebration was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Myron H. Ridlon.

Herbert Elliott of Bar Harbor is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Elliott are enjoying the society of their daughter, Marlene, a teacher from Connecticut, who came purposely to spend the Christmas recess with them.

Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Devereux, Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Garner, have returned to their home in Portland.

W. O. Merrill is convalescing.

On the evening of Dec. 22nd, Kezar Falls Kiwanis Club met at Hotel Malvern. The speaker of the evening was Frank Ballantyne of Portland. His subject was "Safety" and was of thrilling interest. Mr. Ballantyne is a good speaker, thoroughly conversant with his subject and possessor of a finely modulated voice which makes listening a pleasure. It was a stag party and the time was well employed as there was much business to care for. The topics discussed and ventilated during a year by the different speakers are a school of themselves and deserving of the closest attention.

Rev. Mr. Townsend was the speaker at the Christian Church, Sunday, with a fair attendance.

Leland Wilson and family were Sunday guests at his grandfather's, Frank Chandler's.

State of Maine Publicity Bureau

Condensed Account of Year's Work As Given by Manager Harrie B. Coe

In General
We have received 31,399 letters of inquiry up to December 1st as a result of the State of Maine newspaper and magazine advertising. Replies from the State's tourist advertising come to the Maine Publicity Bureau which handles the correspondence and mailing of literature.

It further furnishes service to the tourists after they arrive in Maine. 30,047 parties were recorded at our main office, Longfellow Square, Portland, from June 1st to September 30th, who called there for information. During the same period in 1929, 26,674 parties called. This may represent from 1 to 5 people in each party. It seems entirely reasonable to say that we served at our Portland office between 75,000 and 100,000 people. 48, 202 out-of-state automobiles passed through Longfellow Square, going east, were registered by us. During a similar period last year 46,550 were registered.

We distributed 131,275 pieces of literature this year as compared with 149,137 last year. This year our Branch Office at Rock Cove from June 29th to September 1st handled 7,654 parties representing 1 to 5 people. It seems conservative to say that probably 10,000 or more people were served by that office. Through the cooperation of our Director, Charles H. Fogg, we have operated a Branch Office in the office of the Houlton Times, Houlton, Me., without expense to us.

Through the cooperation of our Director, Harry A. Chapman of Bangor, our Branch Office has operated without cost to us at the Bangor House as usual, in charge of Robert B. Blair. We have also operated cooperatively Branch Offices on a non-exclusive basis at Haines' Drug Store, Skowhegan, for the northern central section of the State and at the office of our Director, Roger C. Rice, Bank Square, Boothbay Harbor, for that section of the Maine coast.

We have had splendid cooperation by the Ogunquit Publicity Bureau, and the Kennebec Publicity Bureau located in these two towns. The West Room at De-marquette maintained by the Chamber of Commerce in that place, the Chamber of Commerce in Augusta, Waterville, Bangor, Farmington, Bridgton, Southport, Harcourt and by D. T. Scott and Sons Co. of Greenville for the Rigoqueux and Ka-tadin sections.

In my 1929 annual report reference was made to the set of six motion picture films illustrating scenic and recreational features of our State, also the industrial relations through the time quarters and cement industry, the lobster industry, the blueberry canning industry and sardine packing industry, also along agricultural lines showing potato harvesting in Aroostook, the sheep raising industry and other subjects.

The value of motion picture films is, of course, in their circulation and release where people will see them. After negotiations covering a period of two years we have finally perfected our films to meet requirements through which we have recently completed arrangements for the distribution of these films through the library of Bell & Howell Company Chicago. The Bell & Howell Company are manufacturers of practically all of the standard size cameras used by the motion picture people. They also manufacture the so-called film or amateur motion picture camera which takes the 16 mm film.
Our films will be handled through their distributors and agents located in practically every city in the United States, and they also have many direct connections.
Because of this contact which we have finally worked out, we have also been invited to place our films with the Motion Picture Bureau of the National Council Y. M. C. A. This Council distributes films to clubs, churches, schools, communities, welfare and public institutions as well as Y. M. C. A.'s throughout the country. Another outlet for our films are requests we get from various Maine and New England clubs located in various parts of the country.

We have continued to cooperate with the different Women's organizations and committees, on the subject of regulation and control of the so-called billboard nuisance and unsightly signs along our highways.

We have as usual cooperated with various State agencies like the State Chamber of Commerce, the Associated Industries and various State departments for the elimination of duplication of service work. As we are confining our efforts largely to recreational matters, wherever we have had requests for information on industrial or agricultural matters, we have referred them to these various agencies and they in turn have done the same with requests they have received for recreational information.

It should be borne in mind that the tourist business brings $100,000,000 into the State of Maine every year. This is not money that passes from one pocket to the other of Maine people, but comes to us from non-resident people from without the State. May not this be one of the reasons why Maine has not suffered from this year's business depression as have other sections of the United States?

Another feature of this recreational business which should not be overlooked is that this is all new money attracted by the scenery and other natural advantages which we enjoy, an asset which we have with us always and which is in no way depleted so that we sell it year after year.

We have followed out this year the plan of plunging into the territory of having our office personnel get out into the territory week ends as much as possible. The plan is for those who are not on duty each Sunday to cover as much of different parts of the state as they can, going in pairs to different sections. On their return to the office Monday morning they have a get-together meeting and compare notes and exchange information on what they have learned during their trip. We have found that nothing is more effective than to be able to say "yes" to the question, "Have you been there?" which people often ask when seeking information.

We have still further cemented our very agreeable relations with J. Douglas Black, managing director of the New Brunswick Government Tourist Information Bureau, with headquarters in Fredericton, N. B. Through this cooperation we feel that there is no border line now existing between Maine and New Brunswick. Our relations are of the happiest nature. Our cooperation has brought benefit to the territory which we both represent. It is estimated that travel that flows east into New Brunswick must of necessity cross the State of Maine. Inversely these people who have visited Nova Scotia and who have visited Maine must drive across New Brunswick. These reciprocal relations have been productive of very satisfactory recreational returns.

We have sent out our customary 5,000 questionnaires to parties who have written us or registered with us during the past season. The purpose of these questionnaires is to check up on the efficiency of our work and see if our visitors receive proper and friendly reception from hotels, transportation lines, bus lines, hunting and fishing guides, gasoline stations, etc.

We also ask how much money each one of the party spent and how it was divided in the expenditure. This enables us to carry out our statistical work. We are now handing the analysis of the replies received.

During the month of April we completed arrangements whereby the four colleges, Bates, Bowdoin, Colby and University of Maine, furnished us with envelopes addressed to their alumni. We had printed a card suggesting that the alumni come to the June Commencement and plan to spend a vacation period in Maine after Commencement. This card and a copy of the State booklet, "Eastward Ho! To Maine" was mailed to each member. We are indebted to the various college officials for their splendid cooperation in this movement.

We have had the usual yearly cooperation from the Standard Oil Company by furnishing us with an initial lot of 5,000 copies of their excellent map showing the highways of New England. They have supplemented this supply when required during the season. We have distributed something like 8,000 of these maps which they have furnished to us and by us to the tourists, without any cost to this Bureau.

During the month of August it was reported to us by callers that Radio Station WOB was broadcasting the names of the highway between Portland and Brunswick was impassable and giving other information detrimental to the State of Maine. We immediately took up the matter with WOB and received a courteous reply thanking us for correcting their misinformation and that they would use the information in their weekly radio bulletins of touring which go out from that station.

Four years ago President Ricker conceived the idea of establishing a permanent year round exhibit of Maine Made Products in connection with our information office in Portland. Three years ago plans were drawn by Mr. Cunningham, the owner of the building. President Ricker and your manager studied the subject very carefully and enlisted the cooperation of Judge Benjamin F. Cleaves, Executive Secretary of the Associated Industries of Maine. After a thorough investigation, it was determined that the time was not yet ripe to launch such a project as people did not then realize the relation between the tourist business, industry and agriculture.

In order to test out this idea, we have, during the past two years, offered our window display space in Longfellow Sq.
to various manufacturing industries, Chambers of Commerce and other civic bodies. Because of the favorable reaction of the manufacturers who exhibited, whereby they were able to trace direct sales from our window display, even though it was for only a week or two, we determined in the early fall that we would again test out Mr. Ricker's plan.
We secured an option on the three stores adjoining our Information Office, thus getting control of the ground floor space of the First National Building where we have been exhibiting our Maine Made Products. Plans for the inclusion of all this property were drawn by John Howard Stevens, Architect of Portland. I am pleased to announce that such plans have been expressed by leading manufacturers to warrant us in instructing Mr.
Cunningham, the owner of the building, to make plans for the necessary alterations and in operation this coming summer. It is planned to operate it during the entire year with suitable attendants in charge, and out of respect to our late lamented President, it is to be called the Hiram W. Ricker Memorial Exhibit of Maine-Made Products.

We are only too glad to cooperate with similar projects and hope that many such exhibits may be established in cities and towns where tourists congregate.

BETHEL

Miller-Hutchinson

A pretty wedding took place Christmas eve at Skillingston, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hutchinson when their daughter Barbara was united in marriage with H. Bradford Miller, also of Bethel.
The house was attractively decorated with evergreen and flowers, suggestive of the Yuletide season. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. A. Edwards, the single ring service being used.

The bride wore a dress of pink georgette, with lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Her going away gown was of blue of Speedies with accessories to match. Immediately following the ceremony, the young couple left on a short trip. Upon their return, they will reside with the bride's parents at Skillingston, for the winter.

desire it. All this blythe on the part of Mr. Benton was simply to get his chief lieutenant to carry out his plans and have him feel that he had an important part to play in the matter.

The lawyer, who had much executive ability, promptly consulted Curtis, who was greatly pleased with having the opportunity to take the chief position in the new act was, that he had come to dislike the grocery business and to believe he could do better at something else. Whiting, with the information that Curtis was a lawyer, suggested that he express himself, brought to Mr. Benton Arnold's assignment of his mortgage and his deed as assignee and received his check as per agreement. He afterwards informed Benton that Arnold was so glad to be able to unload his claim that he had paid him a very liberal fee for doing the business.

A Negro Refugee

By Charles E. Waters

A newspaper man, many times a lover of local interest where he was to find it. I found a chamber of years ago while in Boston. I am not sure if it has never been told, although it has happened years ago.

Few persons living today remember what happened here. I can not yet find an interesting transaction at that time, which stops to think about it was the of a century ago. The slave was a live human and did not to the northern sin and did not to closely, yet those who strove most strongly were Northern leaders—William Lloyd Garrison, Wendell Phillips, were Masses while the martyr, Elijah Love, Maine man, and Harriet Beecher "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was "that interesting Maine village." The people made a great abolitionists, one of those earnest and altruistic political men springing up in the United States in other countries, too, was going to effect a change for against which they fight and mixed with some milder brands to accomplish some part of desired. Almost all of them are to compromise and are Fabian methods. There were lists in Oxford County, but it can never be ascertained.

One does not find in the literature of anti-Civil War learn that there was such a Underground Railroad—a to cover the paths of runaway men willing to assist in escape was called an agent of the Railroad and there were in Oxford County. Men did not claim themselves as agents of action for that they were on hand as well as an underground and to take part in it was proceeding; and yet some of the most law abiding men in the land they are remembered as for these acts, rather than for which followed the statutes.

According to the author's daughter, Miss Charlotte, we are informed that no less than Elias Thomas of Portland, Hon. William Wigwag Thon of the New Sweden colony in Norway, acted in such a way that negroes were sent through County to a refuge in Oxford. Many were sent through the river he asserted that one of them got stranded within the county, which seems to prove that an underground ran through its territory. The "Simbo" got out of the Fryeburg and remained in the remainder of his life; and the county followed the "Simbo" the wilderness and made a that mountainous region known as Bachelor's Grant this day as "Nigger Tom's." It was the story of the day. I learned very unexpectedly unexpected place.

While residing at the Hub barber shop near my home kept by a negro, I had work done. The proprietor framed muscular man of intellectual ability. One day, being going to his shop and while getting my hair cut with—"You came from Maine, did you not?" I he did and asked him if he had chosen for the Civil War. "Nothing for a few moments summed, "Where did you live of Maine?" He did not recall and when he did it took the question "Do you know of West Minot?" "Lived within miles of it most of my life. "Were you ever there?" He responded. He had not for a few moments then he explained I was born a slave in Maine the port of Havre de Grace. A young boy I did work about my master, and I served—also acted as valet to him but when I had about got to hired me out as a stovepipe porter. It was just before the out of the Civil War and I sold which put into the England ships and associations and they kept asking me did not run away up north. I contented with my lot but much about running away but thought I would if I got Along in the winter before out of the Civil War and I port to discharge their cargo and I worked on her. I with the cook, who remained and he put the question "Did he ask you to run away?" I replied that I got the chance.

"Now is your chance." The captain is an Abolitionist and not help you in any way, but if he found you in the we got to sea he wouldn't of I can hide you in the hold out after we get away. I agreed to his proposition and tried out. When the cook took me to the cabin of "That official listened to what I had to say about finding me over and finally got to he replied—"well, since you might as well act as cabin officers," and I agreed to do. We were out about when one day just at sunset land over our northern border. I was able the captain said that what he would do in our land. We shall here about. I afterward learned the city (Maine, Maine) and there was of men looking after runaway so you had better be careful. I times, unless I tell you you did as the captain suggested were loaded for the next voyage the last night in the port. I have done all I can do for south tomorrow morning. I with me they will gobble up when we land—you go for run for helping you to get into the country tomorrow you will have to do for you produced an old carpet bag with food," he said, "and but I call you tomorrow." "In the morning following o'clock the captain called me outside the city and showed which he said led straight to the city. He gave me a little told me to travel as long as I could and say as little to the as possible. "The farther you the city the kinder you will be and the less likely they arrest you."

"I traveled all day and many of the people on the way when darkness came I hid in an old deserted camp, with a little hay. I never came a day in my life. It was also
